

How to Celebrate World Theatre Day

Guidelines

World Theatre Day in a Nutshell

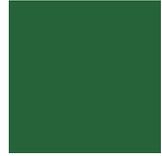

World Theatre Day was initiated in 1961 by the International Theatre Institute ITI. It is celebrated annually on 27 March by Centres, Cooperating Members and Partner Organizations of ITI as well as the international theatre community. Various national and international theatre events are organized to mark this occasion.

One of the most important of the Celebration is the circulation of the World Theatre Day Message through which at the invitation of ITI, a figure of world stature shares his or her reflections on the theme of Theatre and a Culture of Peace. The first World Theatre Day Message was written by Jean Cocteau in 1962.

Ever since, each year on 27 March (date of the opening of the 1962 edition "Theatre of Nations" in Paris), World Theatre Day has been celebrated in many and varied ways by ITI Centres - of which there are now more than 90 throughout the world. Moreover theatres, theatre professionals, theatre lovers, theatre universities, academies and schools celebrate it as well.

Each year an outstanding figure in theatre or a person outstanding in heart and spirit from another field is invited to share his or her reflections on theatre and international harmony. What is known as the official Message is translated into more than 50 languages, read for tens of thousands of spectators before performances in theatres throughout the world, and printed in hundreds of daily newspapers. Colleagues in the audio-visual field lend a fraternal hand, with more than a hundred radio and television stations transmitting the Message to listeners in all corners of the five continents.

Goals of World Theatre Day

The main issue of World Theatre Day is to promote “theatre” in all its forms to professional and people all over the world. Further goals and purposes include:

- to make people aware of the value and importance of the theatre;
- to enable the theatre community to promote their work on a broad scale, so that opinion leaders, government and municipal entities are aware of the value of the art form and are support it;
- to share the inspiration that a theatre performance has;
- to bring the cultural diversity of theatre performances to audiences;
- to open the door for the idea and benefits of mutual understanding and peace in the minds of people.

Brief History of World Theatre Day

World Theatre Day has been created by the International Theatre Institute ITI, the world's largest organization for the Performing Arts, and was celebrated for the first time on 27 March 1962.

Ever since, each year on the 27 March (date of the opening of the 1962 edition "Theatre of Nations" in Paris), the day is celebrated all over the world.

One of the most important actions is the circulation of the World Theatre Day Message through which, at the invitation of ITI, a figure of world stature shares his or her reflections on the theme of Theatre and a Culture of Peace.

The first World Theatre Day International Message was written by Jean Cocteau. The World Theatre Day Message is translated into the different languages of the world and distributed widely.

World Theatre Day Message Authors 1962-2020

All the (international) Message authors from the beginnings of World Theatre Day in 1962 were selected by ITI, respectively by the Executive Council of ITI. The aspects that are considered by the council by selecting a Message authors are diversity of regions, gender, professions and countries. In exceptional cases an outstanding figure that was not part of the theatre community but had a great interest in theatre were asked to write the Message. The Message authors that were selected so far, all of them played an important role either in their country or worldwide.

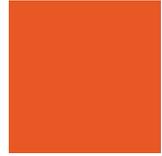

Some Centres of ITI also select a local Message author and celebrate World Theatre Day in reading the Message of both.

Who Can Celebrate World Theatre Day?

The Centres and Cooperating Members as well as the Partner Organizations of ITI are the driving force behind the celebration of World Theatre Day in their country or region.

But Celebration on World Theatre Day (27 March) or around this date can be organized and promoted by anyone and everyone who estimates the art form theatre and is caring for theatre and a world with mutual understanding, a world in peace.

For instance:

- Centres of ITI
- Cooperating Members of ITI
- Partner Organizations of ITI
- Theatre Venues
- Theatre Associations
- Theatre groups
- Theatre lovers / Theatre aficionados
- Theatre Institutions
- Ministries of Culture or other government entities
- Theatre universities, academies or any educational theatre institution
- Schools (primary, secondary, colleges, etc.)
- Prisons (as done by the International Association for Theatre in Prison IATiP)
- Individuals
- Etc.

ITI recommends that individuals or institutions who want to celebrate a World Theatre to coordinate it with the ITI Centre or Cooperating Member in their country or region. The list of the Centres and Cooperating Members can be found in the directory online at www.iti-worldwide.org/centes.html www.iti-worldwide.org/cooperatingmembers.html.

Promoting the Message with a Special Event

The types of events organized around World Theatre Day are as numerous as there are ideas. Here is a short list of the major ones:

- Special Theatre Award Ceremony
- Charity Performances for organisations, people or specific issues connected with theatre
- Fundraising for a Special Project with a gala, ball, dinner, etc
- Open Doors for Theatre Universities, Theatre Academies or Theatre Schools
- Free Tickets during World Theatre Day to selected performances
- Conferences, special performances, symposia, colloquia and round tables, discussions
- Meetings with the Message author, meetings with local actresses and actors
- Street Theatre Event
- Demonstration/Procession for theatre
- Flash mob on World Theatre Day
- Competition for school children to write a text connected with the theme of World Theatre Day ending with performances for children played by children

Promoting the World Theatre Day Message by Reading it

Reading the Message in Venues

To read the Message in a theatre or any venue can be done in different ways such as:

- In front of the curtain or just on stage before the performance begins. An actress or actor reads the Message to the audience.
- In the lobby, before the performance or in the intermission, an actress or actor reads the Message to an assembled audience.
- In the audience, done by the Message author or by an actress or actor, before the performance.
- At a separate time in the venue with discussions, round tables, etc.

Reading the Message in Universities, Academy and Schools

- Often the Message is read in schools (any level), read by the pupil or the teacher or even by an invited theatre person, with discussion afterwards.
- In Italy in different levels of schools the pupils are invited to select a theme, write a play together and perform it together during World Theatre Day – whereas the theme can be taken out of the Message or chosen by the organizers, a theme that is important for the boys and girls of the schools.

Promoting the World Theatre Day Message by Reading it

Reading the Message in Prisons

- Similarly, the theme of the Message of World Theatre Day can be read by prisoners and may even led to performances created by prisoners.
Link International Network Theatre in Prison INTiP: www.theatreinprison.org

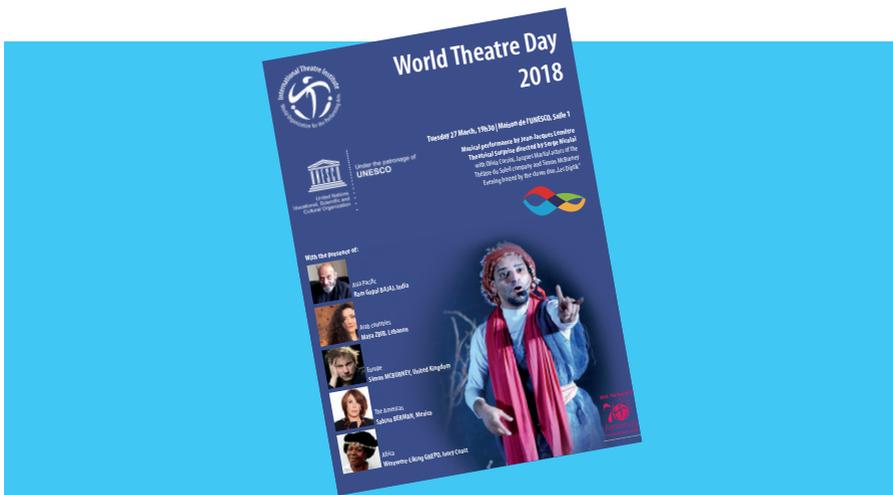

Reading of the Message in a Community

- Any group or any community can select the Message to be read in a small to large group with ensuing discussions.

Reading the Message on Radio

- In many locations an actress, actor or other theatre aficionado reads the Message in Radio and thus may inspire a large audience through this.

Promoting the World Theatre Day Message by Printing and Distributing it

Promoting the Message by Distributing Leaflets

In some countries the Message is printed in leaflets that are distributed. This may happen;

- In a venue where the leaflets are handed out at the entrance, place on seats, etc.
- in a public place (preferably near the theatre) where the leaflets are distributed to passer-by's
- in a train station (may need legal permission) where the people are waiting for their train
- in parks, even with an actress or actress in costume who is reading the Message to the people, leaflets can be distributed.

Promoting the Message in Newspapers, Periodicals, Magazines, etc.

- Additionally, to distributing leaflets with the Message and the biography of the Message author, the Message can be sent to newspapers and magazines for publication. This has to be coordinated with the General Secretariat, as soon as the Message is available in the original language and in the language required by the newspaper or magazine.

Promoting the World Theatre Day Message by Printing and Distributing it

Promoting the Message on Posters

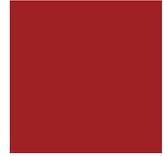

A way of promoting the Message can be to put it on a poster and put on prominent locations throughout a city or even in a venue, in front of the venue, in a university or even in the building of the Ministry of Culture or other governmental agencies.

Promoting All Existing Messages in a Book

Sometimes the latest Message is printed together with all previous Messages in a book form and released on World Theatre Day. This has already been the case in English, French, Bangla (Bengali), Arabic and Kannada (India), among others. If you would like to have all the Messages, that are available in English and French, please write to wtd@iti-worldwide.org.

You may create occasions for such a publication yourself, or for instance choose an anniversary such as the 60th Anniversary of World Theatre Day on 27 March 2022.

Promoting the Message with a Video and Putting it on YouTube

Promoting the Message with the Author Reading it on Video

A video of the Message Author reading his/her Message on YouTube has been a successful way to promote the Message. Possible is that the Message Author reads the Message in front of a camera or the Message Author is reading the Message without being seen and the Message is illustrated by presenting his work. In 2012, Sidi Larbi Cherkaoui made a video that had over 30 000 hits on YouTube (beginning 2013).

To have the author read his/her Message on video that can be uploaded on YouTube and different websites is ideal. Usually this is done through an agreement between the author and the General Secretariat of ITI and the produced video is made available for use all over the world.

Promoting the Message with an Actress or Actor Reading it on Video

Sometimes it is not possible to have the author read his/her Message. In this case, ITI asks its Centres, Cooperating Members and friends to select a personality, well known in a region or a country, to read the translated Message in his/her language and to send the video to the General Secretariat for post-production and publishing on the ITI websites and YouTube. More information: wtd@iti-worldwide.org.

Promoting the Message via Radio, TV, Press and Internet

ITI Centres, Cooperating Members and friends are encouraged to send the World Theatre Day Message to news media of any kind. The authors are in general willing to give interviews. If there is an interest of radio, TV, Press or Internet agency to interview the Message author, please get in touch with the General Secretariat over wtd@iti-worldwide.org.

It is appreciated if you are posting the Message with biography and pictures on your website or send it to sources that may post it on their website.

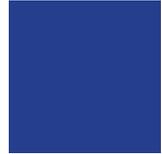

Event Map of World Theatre Day

The General Secretariat of ITI has created an event map. If you are holding an event, please send your information to wtd@iti-worldwide.org so that it can be put on the global map for World Theatre Day:

www.world-theatre-day.org/worldwideevents.html

Note, that the Message is available in in different languages. To find out which languages are available please check www.world-theatre-day.org

Promoting the Message via Social Media and Blogs

Feel free to promote your actions in relation to World Theatre Day on Social Media such as Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, etc. You also may participate in World Theatre Day blogs that individuals and organizations have created on the issue of World Theatre Day.

World Theatre Day on Facebook

To show other what is happening on World Theatre Day elsewhere you may connect yourself on the Facebook page that the General Secretariat of ITI has created.

<https://www.facebook.com/ITIWorldTheatreDay/>

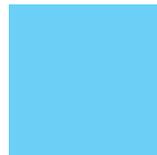

Promoting the Message in a Way that is Appropriate to Your Ideas

Your Creativity is Encouraged. Many ideas can be developed for the celebration of World Theatre Day. There are already blogs that you can find on internet.

Please send us your ideas and your kind of event that you organize, and also where and when you celebrate the day, so that we can put it on the Celebration Map on our website.

Translating the Message

Due to the multitude of languages that exist all over the world, and because the Message should be understood by the people in a country or region, the Message of World Theatre Day is always translated into the country's language or languages and the same goes for the short biography of the author.

The translation serves for promoting the Message locally. It generally is used by the Centre or a theatre community for their audience.

If you would like to translate the message into your language, please contact the ITI Centre of your country. You will find the information about your Countries Centre on the ITI website: www.iti-worldwide.org/centres.html.

You also may contact the General Secretariat of ITI wtd@iti-worldwide.org, to find out if there is already a translation being prepared.

If there is no ITI Centre in your country feel free to translate the message and send your translation to wtd@iti-worldwide.org,

Please mention at the end of the message the name of the translator. After receiving it, it will be put on the ITI and World Theatre Day websites for further use.
