

Theater is in everyone's heart. We can create a theater even if we are alone. We are preparing a play about the meaning of theater through physical actions. A woman running, people walking down the street, a man drinking coffee, a little girl staring at the sky, a crying person. It's all theater. We imagine the Theater as a blue bird in our hearts. That bird always wants to get out. That bird needs to fly. Here's the gist of our show. Theatre is the art of looking at ourselves. Every action we take on a daily basis has a meaning. We want to reveal that meaning.
